Two thieves were arrested near Van Wert O., on the 20th, having in their posseission a gray mare, which one of them rode, and a orrel mare hitched to a top buggy, in which the other was riding. The buggy and a robe were marked C. R. C., and a feed bag was marked C. R. Conger. Mr. Conger, who lives South of Mansfield a few miles, was elegraphed, and came and took possession of the property. The thieves confessed the obbery, and stated that the horses belonged in the neighborhood of Tiffin, O. Any one knowing of the loss of such snimals would do well to inform the owners of these facts. Police Courts witness some affectionate, as well as affecting scenes, as appears from a marriage which took place at Columbus, the other day, but which did not come under the supervision of Mrs. Grundy. A mulatto, to whom was stacked the significant cognomen of Velox, was arrested on a charge of bastardy, and lodged in the city prison. At an early hour in the evening, a pretty Quadroon girl appeared and made demand that she should be married then and there, to the prisoner, declaring, amid a tumult of sobs, that a wicked police man had put her ever since she was fourteen years of age, and that he had the license to marry her in his pocket. The state of the case was explained as delicately as possible, by the marshal and reasons given why the marriage abould not take place, but Miss Oundroom. should not take place, but Miss Quadroon will be rewarded by leaving the same at the Advertising Agents didn't care.
